"True Bearing Ltd approached Andy Procter of A & N Business Computer Systems Ltd to review our computer requirements in January of 2009. We found that he established our requirements quickly, whilst taking into account our current position & budgetary restrictions.

The recommendations made by Andy covered our position at the current time, as well as his improvements that we are hoping to make in the future. His recommendations were made clearly in written format, which he delivered at an agreed meeting with ourselves.

On engaging the services of A & N, remedial action required was taken quickly & with little disruption to the business. The visits made to our offices were made on agreed dates, punctually & the work was completed within agreed timescales.

We have always found Andy & his staff to act quickly & efficiently when we have any computer issues, dealing with them immediately & remotely wherever possible. All members of his team act in a professional manner at all times. I would not hesitate to recommend A & N Business Computer Systems Ltd."
